

Concrete Leveling System

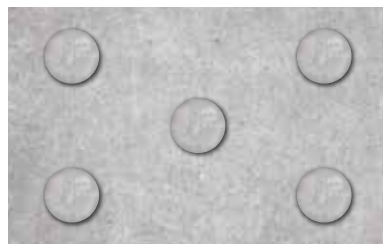

Concrete Leveling, often referred to as “mud-jacking”, has been used by Helitech since 1987 to raise and level settled concrete for a fraction of the cost of replacement.

As technology has advanced, Helitech continues to lead the industry by embracing the innovative and less invasive Polyurethane or “Poly-jacking” Leveling System.

Traditional Mudjacking

Holes are larger and require more to be installed.

Polyurethane Leveling

Smaller and fewer holes required.

Applications

Residential

Sidewalks, Porches, Patios, Garage floors, Basement floors, Swimming pool aprons, Void Fill, and more.

Commercial & Industrial

Roadways, Undersealing, Warehouse floors, Airport Runways, and Bridge approaches.

Don't replace it, raise it!®

Quick, Non-invasive, Effective

Helitech will insert the two part polyurethane blend into the effected area's through a tiny dime size 3/8" injection ports.

The special polyurethane blend will flow through the ports into the compromised soil beneath your sunken concrete, making its way through the tiniest cracks to ensure ALL voids are filled.

Once the polyurethane has made its way into all of those tiny cracks and voids it will then start to expand and harden, compressing the soil around it and lifting the sunken concrete.

Lastly, the polyurethane system has an extremely quick cure time which means you'll be able to use your concrete the same day we finish lifting it back up.
